

Inter-American Community of Crime Analysts
First Exchange of Crime Analysis Experiences in the Americas
Launching of the Community
First Call for Crime Analysis Experiences

PRESENTATION

The Inter-American Community of Crime Analysts of the OAS Department of Public Security, with the support of the International Association of Crime Analysts and Chile's IACA Analysts' Network, seeks to facilitate the exchange of innovative and effective experiences on crime analysis and information/knowledge management in the field of Public Security, particularly among governments, crime observatories, police institutions, academic/research centers, and civil society organizations in the Americas. One way to do that is through the organization of virtual events, with a regional scope.

Through these exchanges, the Community also seeks to increase interest and collective learning from the presentation of initiatives/cases/experiences involving the implementation of solutions, models/processes/systems, analytical product/services, or tools to improve the effectiveness of the analysis that guides crime and violence prevention interventions in a comprehensively, informed manner, and with real knowledge of the territory.

Additionally, through these exchanges, the Community also aims at strengthening the capacities and the development of crime analysis skills, not only to guide policing and police performance, but also to bolster all the stages in the public security policy cycle.
